

Once again I have to pen my objections to the ever increasing expansion of this site, as I have over the many years since it was a grassy paddock. Then planning was granted , on a temporary basis, to allow ONE caravan to be sited because it was said that the occupant could not live in a house surrounded by four walls.

I would have thought four caravan walls was worse!

The site there is wrong in every way.

It is on a dangerous and unsighted part of the A27.

It is unsightly, especially with the increased number of caravans.

It often has commercial vehicles in excess of 7T parked within its grounds.

We also have had prolonged periods of someone riding and continuously revving a motorbike in the grounds. This over the whole of the year and since I live just across the road from the [REDACTED] site it is invasive and has destroyed a quiet country environment.

What really angers me, is that since that original temporary permission of a single caravan, expansion has gone unchecked. Every objection has been disregarded.

Enough is enough.

I hope you have the common sense to refuse further expansion.
