Wiltshire County Council Historic Environment Record reports

ABSTRACT

Avon Archaeology Limited was commissioned by Paul Rogers, of CMS Group Limited, to undertake an archaeological desk-based assessment of a site at Little London, Heytesbury, Wiltshire. It is proposed that the existing building will be converted into apartments, and the existing grounds used to construct three new houses.

The site lies to the north-west of Heytesbury, on the southern side of Little London, and falls within the boundary of the Heytesbury Conservation Area. There are no Scheduled Monuments within the site boundary, and no listed buildings. A search of the local authority Historic Environment Record showed no sites or monuments within the red line boundary. No previous archaeological investigation of the study site itself has taken place, and there has been very little modern archaeological work in the area immediately around the site that might hint at its potential in that respect. The overall picture thus far is therefore at best vague. On the site itself, the best potential for archaeological survival is likely to be represented by the current gardens to the west of the house.

The existing house known as the Old Vicarage was constructed in 1894 and is considered to be a Non-Designated Heritage Asset in its own right. The nature, extent, and state of preservation of the archaeological resource on and within the study site, is entirely untested and unknown; however, on the basis of the review which we have carried out for the purposes of this report, it is our opinion that the likely potential for archaeological preservation is, on balance, likely to be low.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Avon Archaeology Limited wishes to acknowledge the assistance given by the following in the production of this report: Paul Rogers, of CMS Group Limited, for commissioning AAL to undertake this project; Ms Tieman for her assistance with the site visit; and the ever-helpful and patient staff of the Wiltshire and Swindon Archives in Chippenham.

1 INTRODUCTION

- 1.1 Avon Archaeology Limited was commissioned by Paul Rogers, of CMS Group Limited, to undertake an Archaeological Desk Based Assessment of their proposed site at Heytesbury, Wiltshire, to assess the potential for the preservation of significant archaeological deposits on the site.
- 1.2 The proposed site is The Old Vicarage, Little London, Heytesbury; and encompasses an area measuring approximately 0.35 hectares, centred on NGR ST 92335 42701 (Figures 1 and 2). The existing large detached two storey dwelling is considered to be a Non-Designated Heritage Asset in its own right. It is proposed that the existing building will be converted into apartments, and the existing grounds to the south and west used to construct three new houses, with a possibility of these including basements.
- 1.3 An OASIS record, which will eventually be linked to the Archaeology Data Service, has been opened for this project, under the reference number avonarch2-533382. There is no HER number for this project as yet, as the local authority archaeology service only assigns them after submission of the final report.
- 1.4 The present document is framed so as to conform closely to the standard and guidance issued by the Chartered Institute for Archaeologists (CIfA) for this kind of project. Specifically, the overarching controlling text is found in the Standard and guidance for historic environment desk-based assessment, last substantively updated in January 2017.

2 NATIONAL AND LOCAL PLANNING POLICIES

- 2.1 National Planning Policy. The current national legislative and planning policy system is defined through the National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF), last substantively updated in December 2024. It states that applicants should consider the potential impact of development upon 'heritage assets'. This term includes: designated heritage assets which possess a statutory designation (for example listed buildings and conservation areas); and non-designated heritage assets, typically compiled by Local Planning Authorities (LPAs) and incorporated into a Local List or recorded on the Historic Environment Record.
- 2.2 Where any development may affect certain designated heritage assets, there is a legislative framework to ensure proposed works are developed and considered with due regard to their impact on the historic environment. This extends from primary legislation under the Planning (Listed Buildings and Conservation Areas) Act 1990. The relevant legislation in this case extends from section 66 of the 1990 Act which states that special regard must be given by the decision maker, in the exercise of planning functions, to the desirability of preserving or enhancing listed buildings and their setting. The meaning and effect of these duties have been considered by the courts in recent cases.
- 2.3 The detail of such cases need not concern us here but the essential outcome of various litigations was that a succession of courts agreed that Parliament's intention in enacting section 66(1) was that decision makers should give 'considerable importance and weight' to the desirability of preserving (i.e. keeping from harm) the setting of listed buildings. Section 69(1) of the Act requires LPAs to 'determine areas of special architectural or historic interest the character or appearance of which it is desirable to preserve or enhance' and to designate them as conservation areas. Section 69(2) requires LPAs to review and, where necessary, amend those areas

'from time to time'. For development within a conservation area section 72 of the Act requires the decision maker to pay

'special attention [...] to the desirability of preserving or enhancing the character or appearance of that area'.

The duty to give special attention is considered commensurate with that under section 66(1) to give special regard, meaning that the decision maker must give considerable importance and weight to any such harm in the planning balance.

- 2.4 The National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF), was last substantively revised in Dec 2024, and is the principal document that sets out the Government's planning policies for England and how these are expected to be applied. It defines a heritage asset as a: 'building, monument, site, place, area or landscape identified as having a degree of significance meriting consideration in planning decisions, because of its heritage interest'. This includes both designated and non-designated heritage assets. Section 16: Conserving and Enhancing the Historic Environment relates to the conservation of heritage assets in the production of local plans and decision taking. It emphasises that heritage assets are

'an irreplaceable resource, and should be conserved in a manner appropriate to their significance'.

- 2.5 For proposals that have the potential to affect the significance of a heritage asset, the NPPF requires applicants to identify and describe the significance of any heritage assets that may be affected, including any contribution made by their setting. The level of detail provided should be proportionate to the significance of the heritage assets affected. LPAs are also required to take this assessment into account when considering applications.

- 2.6 Under 'Considering potential impacts' the NPPF emphasises that 'great weight' should be given to the conservation of designated heritage assets, irrespective of whether any potential impact equates to total loss, substantial harm or less than substantial harm to the significance of the heritage assets. This involves the question of potential harms posed to heritage assets by proposed developments. Where a development will result in substantial harm to, or total loss of, the significance of a designated heritage asset, permission should be refused, unless this harm is necessary to achieve substantial public benefits, or a number of criteria are met. Where less than substantial harm is identified, NPPF requires this harm to be weighed against the public benefits of the proposed development. Where an application will affect the significance of a non-designated heritage asset, a balanced judgement is required, having regard to the scale of harm or loss and the significance of the heritage asset.
- 2.7 The NPPF also notes that local planning authorities should look for opportunities for new development within Conservation Areas and World Heritage Sites and within the setting of heritage assets to enhance or better reveal their significance. It also states that proposals that preserve those elements of the setting that make a positive contribution to, or better reveal the significance of, the asset should be treated favourably.
- 2.8 The Planning Practice Guidance (PPG) has been adopted in order to aid the application of the NPPF. It reiterates that conservation of heritage assets in a manner appropriate to their significance is a core planning principle. Key elements of the guidance relate to assessing harm. It states that substantial harm is a high bar that may not arise in many cases and that while the level of harm will be at the discretion of the decision maker, generally substantial harm is a high test that will only arise where a development seriously affects a key element of an asset's special interest.

It is the degree of harm, rather than the scale of development, that is to be assessed.

- 2.9 Conservation Principles outlines Historic England's approach to the sustainable management of the historic environment. While primarily intended to ensure consistency in Historic England's own advice and guidance, the document is recommended to LPAs to ensure that all decisions about change affecting the historic environment are informed and sustainable. The guidance describes a range of heritage values which enables the significance of assets to be established systematically, with the four main heritage values being: evidential value; historical value; aesthetic value; and communal value.
- 2.10 The PPS5 Practice Guide was withdrawn in March 2015 and replaced with three Good Practice Advice in Planning Notes (GPAs) published by Historic England. GPA1: The Historic Environment in Local Plans (Historic England 2015) provides guidance to local planning authorities to help them make well informed and effective local plans. GPA2: Managing Significance in Decision-Making (Historic England 2015a) includes technical advice on the repair and restoration of historic buildings and alterations to heritage assets to guide local planning authorities, owners, practitioners and other interested parties. GPA 3: The Setting of Heritage Assets replaces guidance published in 2011. These are complemented by the Historic England Advice Notes in Planning which include HEA1: Conservation Area Designation, Appraisal and Management (Historic England 2019); HEA2: Making Changes to Heritage Assets (Historic England 2016); HEA3: The Historic Environment and Site Allocations in Local Plans (Historic England 2015b); and HEA4: Tall Buildings (Historic England 2022).
- 2.11 Local Planning Policies. Specifically for Wiltshire, planning policy is provided by the adopted 2015 Core Strategy. This has the following policy relevant for present purposes:

Core Policy 58 - Ensuring the conservation of the historic environment

Development should protect, conserve and where possible enhance the historic environment. Designated heritage assets and their settings will be conserved, and where appropriate enhanced in a manner appropriate to their significance, including:

- i Nationally significant archaeological remains*
- ii World Heritage Sites within and adjacent to Wiltshire*
- iii Buildings and structures of special architectural or historic interest*
- iv the special character or appearance of conservation areas*
- v historic parks and gardens*
- vi important landscapes, including registered battlefields and townscapes*

Distinctive elements of Wiltshire's historic environment, including non-designated heritage assets, which contribute to a sense of local character and identity will be conserved, and where possible enhanced. The potential contribution of these heritage assets towards wider social, cultural, economic and environmental benefits will also be utilised where this can be delivered in a sensitive and appropriate manner in accordance with Core Policy 57 (Ensuring High Quality Design and Place Shaping).

Heritage assets at risk will be monitored and development proposals that improve their condition will be encouraged. The advice of statutory and local consultees will be sought in consideration of such applications.

3 AIMS, OBJECTIVES AND METHODOLOGY

- 3.1 The primary objective is to assess the potential impact of the proposed development on the historic environment by means of a detailed analysis of previous sources and site visit. The aim is to make full and effective use of existing information in establishing the archaeological significance of the site, to elucidate the presence of historic landscapes, archaeological sites, structures and deposits, its character, distribution, extent, condition and relative significance.
- 3.2 Information was utilised from a search of the Wiltshire Historic Environment Record, undertaken on behalf of AAL by Carol Lewis, Historic Environment Record Data Manager for Wiltshire County Council, and the most salient results of that search have been incorporated in this report. Searches were made of the catalogue of the collections of the Wiltshire and Swindon Archives and a visit made to examine any relevant documents. A variety of online bibliographic resources, most notably JISC Library Hub Discover, the Archaeology Data Service, and Google Scholar, were used to identify potentially useful sources of information, whether published or otherwise.<sup>1</sup> The area of the site is not yet covered by the Victoria County History for Wiltshire, but has been included as part of the Extensive Urban Survey project for the Archaeology of Wiltshire's Towns (EUS, 2004).
- 3.3 A visit to the site was conducted by a member of AAL staff on Friday, 9th May and a digital photographic record was made, which is presented here on the cover and in Plates 1-4.

4 SITE LOCATION, TOPOGRAPHY AND GEOLOGY

- 4.1 The study site is situated on Little London, Heytesbury. Its central point is given by OS NGR ST 92335 42701, and it is bounded to the north by the unclassified highway Little London, to the east by houses and gardens fronting onto Little London and Chapel road; to the south by houses and gardens fronting onto High Street; and to the south-west by houses and gardens fronting onto Westlands.
- 4.2 At the time of writing, there was no formal topographical survey available for the site. However, the area of the site slopes up from south to north, with elevation varying between about 103.8m aOD in the south-east and 107.6 aOD in the north.
- 4.3 The British Geological Survey records the solid geology of the area of the site as divided between deposits of the West Melbury Marly Chalk Formation, dating to the Late Cretaceous period, and described as:
- Buff, grey, and off white, soft marly chalk and hard grey limestone arranged in couplets (BGS);
- and deposits of the Zig Zag Chalk Formation, also dating to the late-Cretaceous, described as:
- Mostly firm, pale grey to off-white blocky chalk with a lower part characterised by rhythmic alternations of marls and marly chalks with firm white chalk. Thin gritty silty chalk beds act as markers in the sequence (BGS).
- 4.4 To the south of High Street are superficial deposits of alluvium, related to the river Wylfe.
- 4.5 There is currently no borehole information from the site itself; however, the closest borehole lies approximately 140m to the north-west, and this records light greyish brown completely weathered calcisiltite chalk to 0.80m below ground surface; greyish white slightly weathered calcisiltite chalk, with bands of complete weathered calcisiltite chalk to 4.2m; with white slightly weathered chalk at 4.3m.

5 GENERAL HISTORICAL BACKGROUND

- 5.1 Heytesbury is fortunate in having at least one major source of information relating to its history and development. This is an archaeological Extensive Urban Survey published in 2004 (hereafter EUS 2004), which provides a comprehensive overview of the town's developmental history, and therefore there is no need here to dwell at length on this aspect of the background to the present study site. What follows therefore is merely a brief review of what we consider to be the most salient points, with additional information from other sources as necessary.
- 5.2 The Domesday survey gives the first details of the estate, then called 'Hestrebe'; although many variations of the place-name are known, it is thought that the original meaning is 'burh of a woman called Hēahþrȳþ' (Gover et al. 1939, 168; Ekwall, 1960, 238), indicating an Old English origin for the name. It was the head of the eponymous Heytesbury hundred recorded in the Exon Domesday (online). The manor belonged to the king,<sup>2</sup> from whom the church was held by a priest called Alfward, and there was a small estate of three hides attached to the church (Thorn and Thorn 1979). This is often taken as an indication that the church was of ancient (i.e. pre-Conquest), and possible royal, foundation, with the status of a minster (Blair 2005, 363-367). Draper (2012, 338) suggests that its Middle Saxon royal estate and minster parish were roughly coterminous. Henry I gave the church at Heytesbury to Salisbury Cathedral in 1115; it became a collegiate church between 1150 and 1160 (VCH, 1956).

<sup>2</sup> Not Milo Crispin, who held Hazelbury (Haseberie in DB), which was mistaken for Heytesbury in Colt Hoare's 'History of Modern Wiltshire', 1824.

- 5.3 The manor was granted to Robert de Dunstanville in 1156 (Ginever, 1981, 10), and it must have been around this time that Heytesbury gained borough status, as the inhabitants are recorded as paying tallage in 1163 (Beresford and Finberg, 1973, 178). It is possibly also in the 12th century that the settlement was re-planned as a small market town with two regular rows of burgage plots (Draper, 2012, 338). Charters for a market and a fair were granted in 1215 by King John to Walter de Dunstanville (Letters, 2004); however, it is perfectly possible, that, as with so many other places, the royal charters were not completely de novo grants, but merely a formal confirmation of arrangements which had already long been in place (Taylor, 1982, 21). The borough had parliamentary privilege from 1449 (Beresford and Finberg, 1973, 178; Colt Hoare, 1824, 122).
- 5.5 In 1472 a hospital of St. John and St. Katherine was founded (VCH, 1956a) which still exists today, although the original buildings, along with virtually all of Medieval Heytesbury, was destroyed in the great fire of 1765. Although Heytesbury was predominantly an agricultural settlement, cloth-making is known to have taken place from the mid-15th century, although little is known of this early industry. There were two cloth mills on the river south of the settlement by the late 18th century, but both had ceased production by the mid-19th century (EUS, 2004).
- 5.6 The single major development following the Medieval period was the emparkment of the Heytesbury House estate in the 17th century. Otherwise, the picture up to the end of the 19th century is one of small-scale piecemeal development around the fringes of the Medieval borough, and a cluster of activity to the east and south-east of the settlement core within the vicinity of Heytesbury Mill. The name of Little London is believed to be derived from the settlement of plague refugees from London in the 17th century, a story which has also been attached to the village of the same name in Hampshire.

- 5.7 The first half of the 20th century saw very little growth, apart from some minor social housing to the west of the village and a large private house off Chapel Lane (ibid.).

6 DOCUMENTARY AND CARTOGRAPHIC EVIDENCE

- 6.1 As a historic borough it is no surprise to find that Heytesbury was mapped from a relatively early date. The earliest surviving plan, dated 1769-70 (WSA 635/123), shows the locations of twenty-six numbered burgage houses; unfortunately, however, the study site is located just outside the area of this plan.
- 6.2 Andrews and Dury's 1773 map of Wiltshire (WSA 1300/48MS) does include the study site, but does not show it in sufficient detail. It does however show the original line of the Warminster to Salisbury turnpike road, which followed the line of the northern part of Little London, before doglegging south along the road now called Chapel Road to meet the current High Street.
- 6.3 The earliest detailed plan which includes the study site is the Enclosure Plan of 1785. Heytesbury was enclosed by Act of Parliament in 1784-5, and a survey was taken, along with a plan (WSA A1/EA 25), which is shown in Figure 3. This plan again shows the Warminster to Salisbury road running along the route described above. The area within the red line boundary is shown to have comprised parts of seven small parcels of land, all but one of which was labelled 'W. P. A. a Court', referring to William Pierce Ashe a'Court (1747-1817), 1st Baronet and MP for Heytesbury. The central plot appears to be labelled 'D of M', which probably refers to the Duke of Marlborough, who held several other plots. Three small buildings fronted onto what is now Little London, to the north of the study site, with a further row of three small buildings to the south.

- 6.4 Neither the 1808 Ordnance Surveyor's Drawing (OSD 63, Wikimedia), or the updated Andrews and Dury map of 1810 (WSA A1/524/2MS) show the area of the study site in sufficient detail. An 1817 map of the borough of Heytesbury (WSA 101/109/1; Figure 4) shows seven houses fronting Little London within the study site by this time; the row of the buildings to the south was still present, with a further two small buildings to the west of them. The boundaries of the plots remained mostly as they were in 1785, with the main road still following the line of Little London and Chapel Road. The main road to Warminster appears to have been made a straight continuation of the High Street, bypassing Little London, in 1839 (Ginever, 1981, 28; WSA 635/78).
- 6.5 There is no tithe map for Heytesbury, presumably due to the Enclosure of 1785. The next map to show the study site in detail is the Map of the Heytesbury Estate dated 1861 (WSA 3043/1L; Figure 5), which shows the new route of the Warminster-Salisbury (turnpike) road, to the south of Little London, forming the modern extension to the High Street. The study site itself is shown as open ground, with four or five buildings fronting onto Chapel Road. There is also hatching to the north of the site which may also represent the houses fronting on to Little London on previous maps. The plot was clearly not part of the Heytesbury Estate however, and is therefore not depicted in any detail. The plot to the south-west of the study site is labelled 70a, with the plots and buildings to the north of that, fronting Little London, labelled 70-73. The accompanying book of reference (WSA 237/5) records that Plot 70a was known as White's Pasture; it formed part of Carpenter's Farm in the occupation of Mr John Carpenter. Table 1 shows the owners, occupiers, plot names, sizes and uses of the plots immediately to the east of the red line boundary.

Regrettably there are no field/plot names from either the study site or its immediate vicinity which can be regarded as in any sense archaeologically indicative.<sup>4</sup> The Rev James Tait (plot 70) is shown on the 1861 census as living at Little London and is recorded as an Independent Minister (Ancestry).

- 6.6 The relevant extract from the First Edition OS 25" map of the study site (Wiltshire Sheets XXII.10 and XXII.14, surveyed 1884, published 1887) is presented here as Figure 6. The study site was depicted as a field labelled 102, consisting of 0.878 acres, with a small area to the north which contained 14 small dwellings fronting on to the road. The small buildings seen to the south on earlier maps had disappeared by this time. Also contained within the red line boundary was part of a smaller, unlabelled, plot to the north-east, on the corner of what is now Little London and Chapel Road.

- 6.7 The new vicarage was constructed in 1894 – the cast iron rainwater heads still on the building are stamped with that date (Plate 3), and a newspaper article of September 1894 records the death of James Grist, a bricklayer, while building a chimney on the roof of the new Vicarage (BNA, Warminster and Westbury Journal and Wilts County Advertiser, 1 Sep 1894). It is suggested that it was built on land that belonged the earlier Vicarage or Curate's House, which faced east onto what is now Chapel Road (Ginever, 1981, 29).
- 6.8 The Second Edition OS 25" map (Wiltshire Sheets XXII.10 and XXII.14, revised 1899, published 1900; Figure 7) is the first map to depict the Vicarage; the numerous small buildings seen to the north of the study site on the First Edition are no longer present and were presumably demolished prior to the construction of the Vicarage. Three of the four buildings previously to the east of the study site had also been demolished, and the plot boundaries rearranged. To the south of the vicarage, a sunken or terraced area is marked out with hachures.
- 6.9 A bundle of early 20th century sketch maps of allotments belonging to the Heytesbury Estate (WSA 635/105) includes a plan of Little London, however the area of the study site itself contains no detail. An à Court family map of Heytesbury showing property owned before 1920 (not reproduced here, see link in references) shows the Vicarage as on the Second Edition map, although the building to the east is not shown. The Vicarage was marked in red, denoting that it did not belong to the Heytesbury Estate.
- 6.10 The Third Edition OS map (same sheet number) was revised in 1923 (Figure 8). The only change from the Second Edition of 1900 so far as the site itself is concerned is the movement of the western end of the southern boundary towards the south, making it run almost straight east-west, following its current line. The sunken or terraced area of the garden is again depicted.

- 6.11 The Vicarage was sold in 1976 (Ginever, 1981, 29) and indeed was one of a number of such buildings disposed of by the Diocese of Salisbury Ecclesiastical Dilapidations Board between 1971 and 1976 (WSA D365/3/23).
- 6.12 Neither the Historic England aerial photography collection, the Cambridge University Collection of Aerial Photography (CUCAP) nor Britain from Above returned any (digitised) results for the study area. The National Collection of Aerial Photography (NCAP) returned two digitised images covering the area of the study site, however neither were at a scale to be usable. The National Library of Scotland Ordnance Survey Air Photo Mosaics 1944-50 cover the area of the study site, but again at too small a scale to see detail (NLS)
- 6.13 LiDAR data (DTM, 1m resolution) was downloaded from the DEFRA Open Data website, and was examined for any potential to reveal significant features within the proposed development area. While the sunken area of garden is clearly visible (Figure 9), the LiDAR image does not appear to show any possible archaeological features.

7 ARCHAEOLOGICAL BACKGROUND

- 7.1 The strict remit of this study is to consider the evidence for archaeological survival in the vicinity of the study site, based on current knowledge as expressed in the Wiltshire Historic Environment Record (WHER). This specific aspect of this review, therefore is underpinned by information taken from a search of the WHER, conducted on behalf of AAL by Carol Lewis, the Historic Environment Record Data Manager for Wiltshire County Council. The search took in an area encompassing a radius of 500m from the centre of the study site. Both the maps and the text arising from this exercise are presented here as part of the Appendix, so that the detail of each entry can be accessed if necessary. The results are split into seven sections: Conservation Area; Historical Landscape Characterisation; the Extensive Urban Survey report; Scheduled Monuments; Listed Buildings; Events (i.e. archaeological work, of whatever kind, which has been recorded as having taken place on, or being related to, a specific site); and Monuments (i.e. sites of known interest);

7.2 Conservation Area

There is a formally designated Conservation Area at Heytesbury, adopted in 1986, which encompasses the historic core of the village. The study site lies just within the north-eastern boundary of the Conservation Area, as shown in Figure 10.

7.3 Historic Landscape Characterisation

The study site falls just on the edge of the 'historic urban core' (HSCO) area labelled HWI1042 (Figure 11), defined as the 'long-established historic centre of a town or city typically delineated in historic characterisation as extent shown on an early epoch of OS mapping' (Sunley, 2016). This area represents the historic core of Heytesbury, which appears to have expanded little in recent years. It once had several small churches and chapels as well as several farms. The town clusters around the routeways here and has medieval origins. Immediately to the west of the study site is an area of semi-detached housing (HWI1043). This is the area once known as Little London, now an area of modern expansion at the west end of Heytesbury village. The modern semi-detached houses here have been placed on land once occupied by this historic hamlet.

7.4 Extensive Urban Survey

The area of the study site is labelled as falling within an area of post-medieval to modern growth (DWI17452; Figure 12), with the area of the medieval town only encompassing the area to the west of Chapel Road.

7.5 Scheduled Monuments

There are no Scheduled Monuments within the boundary of the study site itself (Figure 13). Only two Scheduled Monuments appear within the 500m radius of the Study Area, the closest of which is the 18th century lock-up south of Little London Cottage in the High Street (DWI13397), approximately 215m to the east of the study site. To the north of the site, approximately 460m away, lies a strip lynchet system (DWI13552).

7.6 Listed Buildings

By their very nature, listed buildings will not suffer any direct, physical impact from surrounding development because they are protected. Overwhelmingly, the chief concern for development proposals in terms of these structures, therefore, involves an assessment of impact on their setting, as reflected in the formal Historic England guidance relating to such matters (Historic England 2017).

7.7 No Listed Buildings lie within the boundary of the study site (Figure 14), although the Old Vicarage is considered to be a Non-Designated Heritage Asset in its own right. There are 37 listed buildings within the wider Study Area, all of which are also within the Conservation Area. We will look briefly in turn at those items from the search which are considered most salient for present purposes, and will concentrate on those which are physically closest to the site. The full return from the HER is, however, provided within the Appendix.

7.8 The building which lies closest to the study site is West End House (DWI10472), approximately 80m to the south: a Grade II listed detached house of late 18th century date. To the east of this is 42 High Street (DWI10473), which is recorded as an early 18th century pair of semi-detached cottages, now shop and house. Also fronting onto High Street is the late 18th century Raymond Hall (DWI10478), a former malt house; with, attached to its rear, Church House (DWI10479), dated to 1717.

7.9 To the south east of these lies the Church of St Peter and St Paul (DWI10474) with its associated gates (DWI10475 and DWI10512, both early 19th century) and monuments (DWI10476 and DWI10477, both dating to the early 18th century). The war memorial (DWI16859) lies on the corner of High Street and Tythington Road, while the early 19th century Old School House (DWI10513) lies to the south-west of the church, approximately 200m to the south-east of the study site. All of these buildings lie on the other side of the High Street from the study site, and are unlikely to be in line of site of the proposed development. The remainder of the listed buildings lie to the east of Tytherington Road or south of the river, considerably further from the study site.

7.10 Events

No archaeological interventions have been carried out within the red line boundary of the study site; and indeed only eight are found within the 500m radius of the Study Area (Figure 15). The nearest records relate to number of surveys and management plans for the archaeology of the Salisbury Plain Training Area (EWI4720, EWI4747 and EWI10989), which were carried out between 1983-5, approximately 120m to the north of the study site. A monument condition survey (EWI8133) was conducted in 2009-10 in the same area.

7.11 Approximately 275m to the south-east of the study site, human remains dated to the early medieval period (EWI10368) were reported during the excavation of a soakaway at Quebec House in 2021.

7.12 EWI8557 represents an evaluation to the north of Park Street, Heytesbury in 2007 which recorded a series of later Bronze Age or Iron Age ditches, with a later medieval phase of ditches, underlying modern earthworks; while a further evaluation to the south of Park Street (EWI9283) in 2018 found a large number of features ranging in date from early medieval to post-medieval, including at least two inhumations. An evaluation at Griffins Garage (EWI5853) recorded a boundary ditch of late or post medieval date, and an undated tree throw containing a single sherd of prehistoric pottery.

7.13 Monuments

Of this element of the HER search, there are 22 items within the 500m radius (Figure 16). Nine are undated: an enclosure or ditch (MWI3952) with a nearby field system (MWI4038), approximately 450m to the north-west of the study site; another undated field system (MWI4001) 430m to the north; three ring ditches (MWI3981, MWI4003 and MWI4007) 300m to the north-east; a trackway formerly thought to be lynchets (MWI3989) approximately 300m to the north; ditches and gullies (MWI76699), approximately 470m to the south-east; and water meadows (MWI4000), the closest being 280m to the south of the study site.

7.11 Prehistoric period

Ditches and pits of a Bronze Age date (MWI76461) are recorded as having been found approximately 500m to the east of the site.

7.12 Romano-British period

There were no Romano-British sites or finds recorded in the HER within the 500m radius of the Study Area. The Portable Antiquities Scheme (PAS) website, however, records a Roman finger ring (WILT-F54078), of 2nd to 4th century date, found approximately 100m to the south-east of the study site. A Roman brooch (WILT-B3D442) of similar date was found just to the east of that, and a late 4th century coin (WILT-809704) was discovered to the south of the church.

7.13 Early Medieval period

Two areas of early medieval burials have been recorded with the Study Area: Anglo-Saxon remains consisting of three skulls, and a headless skeleton with a 6th-7th century buckle were found at Newton Plantation (MWI3871) 320m to the west of the study site; while, as already noted above, two burials of 7th-8th century date (MWI78299) were found at Quebec House, 275m to the south-east. Heytesbury also falls with the catchment area for the Saxon settlement of Imber (MWI3444); however, Imber itself lies 7km to the north.

7.14 Medieval period

Heytesbury itself, as a village with medieval origins, is recorded as MWI3879. Strip lynchets (MWI3966), labelled undated but noted as probably being of medieval date, lie at their nearest extent only about 100m to the north of the study site. A possible medieval longhouse (MWI76061) was noted in an aerial photograph of a site stripped for development, 450m to the south-east. Pits (MWI76697) and ditches (MWI76698) containing medieval pottery were recorded on land off Park Street, approximately 470m to the south east.

7.15 Post-medieval period

Approximately 220m to the east of the study site, on High Street, is the Grade II listed 18th century lock-up (MWI3897; also listed as the Blind House MWI43362). Approximately 300m to the south-east of the study site, is Parsonage Farm, a partially extant 17th century farmstead (MWI65179).

7.16 Modern

450m to the east of the study site lies the historic Parkland (MWI3898) of Heytesbury House, noted for its association with the war poet Siegfried Sassoon, who lived at Heytesbury House from 1933 until his death in 1967, and was known to regularly make use of the grounds. The parkland was cut by the A36, but fragments of the formal gardens survive.

8 SITE VISIT

- 8.1 A site visit was made by a member of AAL staff on Friday, 9th May, 2025, which was recorded in a number of still and UAV images which are presented here as the cover and Plates 1-4. The opportunity was taken to explore the site on foot as thoroughly as time and conditions would allow.
- 8.2 Plates 1 and 2 show the areas of proposed development to the south and west of the existing building. The visit also noted the dated cast iron rainwater heads mentioned above (Plate 3), as well as the area of sunken garden to the south (cover, Plates 1 and 4), which was thought by the current occupier to have once been a tennis court. It must be said that nothing was noted on the ground that could be said to be of immediate import.

9 CONCLUSIONS

- 9.1 This desk-based assessment has been undertaken in relation to proposals to redevelop a site at The Old Vicarage, Little London, Heytesbury, Wiltshire.
- 9.2 The wider history of Heytesbury is that it is likely to have emerged in the middle Anglo-Saxon period as a royal estate with a minster church, and probably became a borough in the 12th century, when it may have been laid out as a planned town. The majority of the medieval and post-medieval town was destroyed by fire in 1765.
- 9.3 The local authority HER shows no known heritage assets within the site boundary itself. Several small post-medieval buildings, removed by 1894, were seen on historic maps on the northern boundary of the study site, remains of which may survive archaeologically; however, current plans do not envisage development of this area. Other archaeological features from periods prior to mapping may also be present. The areas of current garden to the west and south-west of the present house, having probably suffered a rather lower degree of general disturbance, may offer a greater chance of survival of in situ archaeology; that to the south has been already somewhat disturbed by the likely terracing.

- 9.4 On balance therefore, we consider that the purely archaeological potential of the site is likely to be low.

| This area represents the historic core of Heytesbury, which appears to have expanded little in recent years. It once had several small churches and chapels as well as several farms. The town clusters around the routeways here and has medieval origins. |                                                |                                         |                                        |       |

| This area of meadowland surround Slater's Farm and makes use of the watercourse to the south. Their layout has changed slightly since this depiction on the 1 ed OS map, but it seems likely that this has been grazing lan for quite some time. |                                                |                 |                            |      |

| This land lies adjacent to the River Wylfe, and appears to be water meadows. Certainly the earthworks relating to the structure are visible on aerial photographs, but hard to determine if still in active use as watermeadows. |                                                            |                 |                                       |  |

| These water meadows are shown on the 1 ed 6" OS map, with only a very slightly different layout. Not certain if they are still active or have become a more generic grazing area - but dominant character is water meadow.       |                                                            |                 |                                       |  |

This area has been converted into agricultural fields. The land here was subject to parliamentary enclosure but the 1 ed 6" OS map suggests it was downland that was being enclosed. Traces of strip lynchets hint at medieval or earlier activity here.

Full Description

This land parcel is shown as being subject to Parliamentary Enclosure Act (1798), on the Enclosure Award mapping. However, seems to be the enclosure of downland rather than creation of new fields or enclosures.

| These two fields have not changed since their depiction on the 1 ed 6" OS map. As the area was subject to parliamentary enclosure it is likely that the plots here were set out by act. The slight reverse s-shape pattern may suggest formerly strip fields. |                                                             |                 |                |

| This land parcel is shown as being subject to Parliamentary Enclosure Act (1785), on the Enclosure Award mapping. However, seems to be the enclosure of downland rather than creation of new fields or enclosures.                                            |                                                             |                 |                |

| This land is a series of water meadows associated with the River Wylfe. Although there have been slight changes in their form, the meadows show on the historic OS maps and there is continuity of character since the late post medieval era. |                                            |                       |

Full Description

This land parcel is shown as being subject to Parliamentary Enclosure Act (1785), on the Enclosure Award mapping. However, this process appears not to have influenced the dominant character of this area as meadow land - hence the choice of the HLC type reflects this.

Legal Description

It is known from historical and documentary records that Walter Hungerford obtained market and fair grants for Heytesbury in the early 13th century, and it is likely that the Borough was founded at or shortly after this time. Beyond these basic facts little is known of the nature of the foundation, and similarly the fate of the earlier, Saxo-Norman settlement is unknown. Given the minor nature of the settlement listed at Domesday it would not have been a huge task to clear the previous buildings (probably clustered around the church) and create a wholly new settlement area. The topography of the modern village to a certain extent preserves the characteristic regular plots of possible burgages, and from this information it is possible to conjecture a small planned settlement centred on the main east-west Salisbury to Warminster route.

Although most of the Medieval borough was destroyed by fire in 1769, the location of the surviving 17th century buildings, the cluster of 18th century rebuilding along the south side of High Street and the presence of two minor 'back lanes' running parallel with either side of High Street also help us to define the extent of the planned settlement. It is possible that the borough extended from the Hospital of St. John (COM4) in the east across to Chapel Lane in the west, and from the 'back lane' tellingly called Newtown in the north across to Mill Lane and the parish church (COM1) precinct in the south. The clusters of possible burgages are located to the east of the parish church, on either side of High Street.

The speculative foundation of new towns in rural locations, or the extension of existing towns, was a common activity in the three centuries following the Conquest (Butler 1976). In addition to creating extra wealth for the lord of the manor in the form of burgage rents and market revenues, these foundations created extra income for the crown. The time of Heytesbury's foundation as a borough – at or shortly after c.1214 – was the peak period for new town foundation, when the crown was expending huge sums on warfare in the Middle East and Normandy, and most needed extra revenue by whatever means (ibid.). The focus of the new borough would undoubtedly have been on the market area. No discrete area for this activity is known in Heytesbury, and it is probable that the market took place along the main street through the settlement.

Legal Description

The single major development following the Medieval period was the emparkment of the Heytesbury House estate in the 17th century. Only that part within the Study Area is shown. Otherwise the picture up to the end of the 19th century is one of small-scale piecemeal development around the fringes of the Medieval borough and a cluster of activity to the east and south-east of the settlement core within the vicinity of Heytesbury Mill and south of Park Street Gates. The first half of the 20th century saw very little growth, apart from some minor social housing to the west of the village and a large private house off Chapel Lane. Heytesbury is fortunate in having escaped the suburban sprawl surrounding many historic towns in the county.

The present topography of this area is varied, with the bulk of surviving 17th and 18th century buildings lying along the south side of the High Street. The north side of the street is chiefly occupied by 19th century houses, with a small proportion of 20th century development. Amongst the older buildings can be discerned a number of former shops or commercial premises, including a handsome 18th century maltings and warehouse.

Legal Description

This occupied the site of the present Parsonage Farm. The extent of the Prebend House is unknown, and the area depicted is conjectural. It is possible that elements of the early building survive within the fabric of Parsonage Farm.

Legal Description

Those roads depicted include the main east-west route through the town, which is probably of great antiquity, minor routes to nearby small settlements known to have existed in Norman times, such as Imber to the north, Tytherington to the south and Knook to the south-east, and two 'service' roads to the north and south of the postulated area of planned settlement (COM5). No documentary or archaeological evidence exists for the antiquity of these routes, they are merely those thoroughfares thought likely to have existed by this survey.

Legal Description

First World War memorial, 1921, with Second World War additions.

DESCRIPTION: Heytesbury War Memorial is located at the north-east corner of the churchyard of the Church of St Peter and St Paul (Grade I-listed), and is in close proximity to the Grade II-listed Ivy House. The memorial stands on a narrow, square stone platform inset into the ground. A path with planting to either side leads from the memorial to the churchyard wall, which has been lowered to allow access. The memorial is of Cornish granite and takes the form of a tall octagonal Latin cross with an inverted Sword of Sacrifice carved in relief to the north-east face. The cross shaft terminates in a moulded foot atop a narrow, octagonal pedestal. This surmounts an octagonal plinth upon a two-stepped octagonal base. The principal inscription is to the north-east face of the plinth, which reads IN/ HONOURED MEMORY/ OF/ THE MEN OF/ THIS PARISH/ WHO FELL IN/ THE GREAT WAR/ 1914 – 1918. The names of the 12 men who died in the First World War are recorded on the faces of the plinth immediately adjacent to the main inscription, with six names given on each side. Above the main inscription, on the pedestal are the dates, 1939 – 1945 with the names of the four men who died in the Second World War recorded in pairs on the pedestal faces to either side of the date. All inscriptions and names are in leaded lettering.

HEYTESBURY

TYTHERINGTON LANE

ST 92 SW      (west side)

9/100      Parsonage Farm and attached cottage

11.9.68      (formerly listed as Parsonage House)

II

Farmhouse with cottage attached to rear. Early C17, rebuilt mid C18. Dressed limestone, tiled roof with hip to left and coped verge to right, groups of diagonally set brick stacks. 'L'-plan. Two storey, 6-windowed front; casements. Six-panelled door with fanlight in semi-circular head to left of centre. Twelve-pane sash with margin panes to left, early C20 French windows and two 2-light cyma-moulded mullioned casements to right. First floor has five cyma-mullioned casements and one blocked mullioned window. Right return in English garden wall bond brick with stone quoins; 2- light ovolo-mullioned casement to first floor and 2-light casement to attic. Left return has early C19 bay with sashes, half-glazed door and 3-light casement to ground floor, first floor has 4-light and 3-light casement. Rear of main range is rebuilt in Flemish bond brick, large lateral stone stack to centre, to right is gabled stair turret with 2-light wooden ovolo-mullioned window. Attached to rear is early C19 single storey service extension with cast-iron latticed casements and planked door. Interior is partly altered, but first floor principal room retains fine Jacobean plaster ceiling with broad bands and pendants, and large stone moulded square fireplace with vase-moulded pilasters, fluted frieze to entablature and overmantel with strapwork decoration with heraldic arms, probably of Moore family. Ante-room to north side of first floor chamber has oak wainscot panelling, small stone Tudor-arched fireplace with arabesque carved overmantel. Stairs rebuilt to first floor level, but winding oak stairs survive up to attics. Early C19 cottage attached to rear is rubble stone with tiled roof, planked central door and 3-light casements either side, two 2-light casements to first floor and to rear. Part of manor belonging to Dean of Sarum and occupied by Rachel Moore c.1630, whose effigy is in north aisle of chancel of Church of St. Peter and St. Paul (q.v.). (E.D. Ginever, The Ancient Wiltshire Village of Heytesbury, 1981.)

Description

A condition survey was undertaken of archaeological sites on Schedule III designated land within the Defence Training Estate Salisbury Plain. This was commissioned to update earlier baseline condition surveys undertaken in 2000 and 2005. Information generated by the survey was intended to be used by the Defence Estates to inform and assist future managements, conservation and development strategies. The work concluded that the condition of the archaeological resource had improved relative to the 2000 and 2005 assessments, largely as the result of effective conservation measures. It also established that despite the intensive use of the DTE Salisbury Plain for training, military activity continued to have only a very minor impact on archaeological monuments.

Description

Nineteen trenches of twenty planned were opened. Every trench contained archaeological deposits with 88 features being recorded. The dates of those investigated range from Middle Saxon to the post medieval period, but the large majority of these were dated to the early medieval period (11th to 13th centuries AD). Two, possibly three, inhumation burials were also recorded.

Description and Sources*Description - None recorded

<1> Gover, J. E. B., Mawer, A. + Stenton, F. M., 1939, The Place Names of Wiltshire, 170 (Monograph). SWI12252.

Village with Saxon origins, implied by the name Ymmanedenu in AD968 in the Edington Charter. In Domesday Book entry in AD1086, it is Imemerie.

<2> Hoare, Sir R. C., 1812, The History of Ancient Wiltshire - Volume 1: South Wiltshire (master), 157-166 (Bibliographic reference). SWI11110.

<3> Royal Archaeological Institute, 1920, Archaeological Journal - Volume 77 (master), pp.82-83 (Serial). SWI1611.

It is suggested as a personal name Immas Pool or Hill.

<4> Sims, M., 2006, St Giles Church, Imber, Wiltshire (Report). SWI25223.

From 1927, the War Office began systematically to take over land across the plain, leasing it back to farmers. By 1932 all farmers in Imber had sold up, but the army only used the land for a short period in the summer.

Houses along the High Street were demolished by the army in 1938 and the cottagers rehoused. By the start of World War Two the population had dropped to 150. Military demands on the Imber area increased until, in 1943, evacuation notices were issued in order to clear the village.

Description and Sources

Description - None recorded

<1> Gover, J. E. B., Mawer, A. + Stenton, F. M., 1939, The Place Names of Wiltshire, p167 (Monograph). SWI12252.

'Hestrebe' in AD1086.

<2> RCHME, 1994, Survey Map 1994 (Survey). SWI20711.

Earthworks survive at east end of village, not surveyed.

<3> Archaeological Site Investigations, 2003, Griffins Garage, Heytesbury, Wiltshire (Report). SWI24634.

A single ditch which was 1.5m wide and 0.65m deep, with steep, straight sides and a flat base, was revealed during an evaluation in 2003. The ditch had two fills; a dark greyish brown silty clay loam, and a compact very dark grey silt loam with occasional charcoal flecks. Pottery of medieval/post medieval date though diagnostic sherds were few, but one base-sherd is from a sagging-base cooking vessel of 12th - 13th century date. Two sherds are typical of the Crockerton pottery industry and are of 17th century date.

<4> Dawson, N., 2018, Land off Park Street (Area 2), Heytesbury, Wiltshire (Report). SWI28375. Pits and ditches of a medieval date were found during an evaluation.

Description - None recorded

<1> Dept of the Environment, Department of the Environment List Wiltshire (Scheduling record). SWI6222.

An 18th century octagonal lock-up with a stone-slatted roof. (Blind house) B) The lock-up, which is a Listed Building Grade II, is set into a garden wall of the Little London Cottage, projecting partly into the garden and partly onto the pavement. It is octagonal, 3.4m wide from face to face, and built of ashlar limestone. The wall are 2.5m high and 0.5m thick and the roof is conical, built of thick stone tiles surmounted by a ball finial. The doorway is to the south, facing the street and the studded door is of oak. There is a small barred square window above. Inside the building there is a wooden bench with a chain attached.
