An application for full planning permission is not therefore required.

INFORMATIVES

1. The applicant is informed that the assessment of this Certificate of Lawfulness application has been based upon and is dependent upon the caravan being used and occupied as set out in the application and accompanying planning statement for purposes ancillary to the main dwelling, and without further additions or physical attachment to the land.

EVALUATION

1. This application is for a Certificate of Lawfulness for a proposed operation relating to the stationing of a caravan within Nashleigh Farm, to serve the residential occupiers of Nashleigh Farmhouse. Irrespective of the planning merits of the case, or lack thereof, this application seeks to demonstrate that the structure would be lawful and would not require express planning permission.

Whether the structure constitutes development

2. It is first necessary to assess whether the proposed mobile home constitutes development. 'Development' is defined under Section 55(1) of the Town and Country Planning Act 2015 as: 'The carrying out of building, engineering, mining or other operations in, on, over or under land or the making of a material change in the use of any buildings or other land'. Furthermore, Section 55(2) (d) states that: 'the use of any buildings or other within the curtilage of a dwellinghouse for a purpose incidental to the enjoyment of the dwellinghouse as such' shall not be taken to involve development. The application is accompanied by a planning statement and supporting information which confirms that the mobile home would be only used as ancillary residential accommodation. Therefore, as the proposed caravan would be situated within the residential curtilage of the existing dwelling and would be utilised for purposes ancillary to the dwellinghouse, namely for ancillary residential accommodation by family members and visitors, the proposal would not result in a material change of use.

3. Meanwhile, a 'building' is further defined by S336 as: 'any structure or erection and any part of a building, as so defined, but does not include plant or machinery comprised in a building'. Established case law has identified three primary factors that should be considered in determining what constitutes a building: the size; the degree of permanence; and the physical attachment to the ground. No one factor is decisive and any judgement will be a matter of fact and degree based upon the specific circumstances of the case.

4. From the information submitted, the caravan meets the definition of a caravan provided in section 29(1) of the Caravan Sites and Control of Development Act 1960 (the 1960 Act) as the mobile home has been designed for human habitation, sitting on structural steel chassis allowing for the whole structure to later be moved. The proposed caravan would sit on a structural steel chassis with timber cross members. The dimensions also fall within those which define a caravan as set out in Section 13(2) of the Caravan Sites Act 1968.

5. The supporting information sets out that there will be no physical attachment to the land other than a connection to services and it will be placed upon adjustable pads, resting under its own weight. For this reason, it will be relatively easy to remove the caravan off site once it is no longer required for its intended use. However, there is no indication as to how long the mobile home is likely to remain on site and therefore whether it amounts to a building can be interpreted as a matter for the exercise of planning judgement.

6. In relation to this, relevant applications have been granted at Appeal which should be taken into consideration as these support the view that no operational development is involved. The supporting documents set out that as the proposed structure falls under the 1960 Caravan Sites and Control of Development Act definition of a Caravan and therefore does not constitute operational development, no material change of use of the land has occurred. An Appeal at Elmbridge Borough Council (reference APP/K3605/X/12/2181651) for the provision of a mobile home within the curtilage of a dwelling to provide ancillary accommodation was allowed. The Inspector concluded that the mobile home would not have a separate curtilage nor a separate access or postal address. Additionally the majority of utilities would be undertaken within the main dwellinghouse. For these reasons, it was concluded that the provision of a mobile home would not amount to development requiring planning permission.

7. Another Appeal at Poole Borough Council (reference APP/Q1255/X/16/3143534) for the siting of a mobile home at the rear of the property for use as a Granny annexe was allowed. This Appeal went into detail over the definition of a 'building' and whether the Case law factors of size, permanence and physical attachment define the stationing of the caravan as a building. With regards to this, the Inspector concluded that the size of the caravan fell within the stipulations of the statutory definition of a caravan with the use of pads to set the caravan to the ground and easy detachment from services and therefore the siting of the caravan did not constitute operational development.

8. In another appeal, a Lawful Development Certificate (LDC) was issued confirming that the siting of a mobile home within the grounds of a dwelling in Kent was lawful, provided it was occupied by the elderly parents of the occupiers of the house. The Council was opposed to the certificate being issued having regard to the mobile home size, the facilities it would contain, its connections to services and its ability to provide independent living accommodation. However, the inspector noted that it fell within the definition of a mobile home under the Caravan Sites and Control of Development Act 1960 and did not exceed the size limits prescribed under the Caravan Sites Act 1968. It would be sited close to the house and would not have a separate curtilage. The elderly relatives required assistance with their day-to-day living and they would share the main house for meals and family socialising. Consequently, it would not result in a material change of use, see Gravesham Ref. APP/K2230/X/18/3212570.

9. It is also noted that the Caravan's Site Act defines the requirements of the construction test as one in which the structure is composed of not more than two sections separately constructed and designed to be assembled on site by both means of bolts, clamps or other devices, which is not the case in this instance. However, within APP/J2210/X/22/3298471 the Inspector concluded that those requirements 'do not extend to single unit caravans...it is clear that unlike in the case of a twin-unit caravan, the structure could be brought to site intact if desired'. This is applicable in this instance.

10. Based on the above, and the nature of the caravan proposed, the caravan is not considered to constitute a building nor constitute a material change of use to the land and does therefore not constitute operational development by virtue of Section 55(1) of the Town and Country Planning Act

Working with the applicant

11. In accordance with Section 4 of the National Planning Policy Framework, the Council, in dealing with this application, has worked in a positive and proactive way with the Applicant/Agent and was focused on seeking solutions to the issues arising from the development proposal.

12. The following recommendation is made having regard to the above and also to the content of the Human Rights Act 1998.

RECOMMENDATION: Certificate of lawfulness for proposed development or use issued For the following reasons:-

1. The Council is satisfied on the evidence adduced that the use of the land within Nashleigh Farm, Ashley Green Road, Chesham for the stationing of a mobile home in the garden to be used for residential accommodation ancillary to the main house does not amount to a material change of use of the land, or on the basis of the information submitted, constitute operational development, by virtue of Section 55 of the Town and Country Planning Act 2015 (as amended). The Certificate is therefore granted.

Buckinghamshire Council as Local Planning Authority, HEREBY CERTIFY that the following:

Applicant: Mr Jack Nethercott
Location: Nashleigh Farm, Ashley Green Road, Chesham, Buckinghamshire, HP5 3PF
Proposal: Certificate of lawfulness for proposed siting of caravan to provide additional accommodation for family of homeowners in accordance with your application received on 5 February 2025 and the plans and particulars accompanying it, would be a lawful use, operation, or activity (as appropriate) within the meaning of section 192 of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 (as amended by section 10 of the Planning and Compensation Act 1991). An application for planning permission is not therefore required. The reason(s) are set out on the following page(s):

Eric Owens
Service Director of Planning and Environment
On behalf of the Council

Date: 27 March 2025

SCHEDULE OF REASONS

1 The Council is satisfied on the evidence adduced that the use of the land within Nashleigh Farm, Ashley Green Road, Chesham for the stationing of a mobile home in the garden to be used for residential accommodation ancillary to the main house does not amount to a material change of use of the land, or on the basis of the information submitted, constitute operational development, by virtue of Section 55 of the Town and Country Planning Act 2015 (as amended). The Certificate is therefore granted.

Application No. MO/2025/0078/PCL
Application Date: 15 January 2025

Mole Valley District Council hereby certify that on 15 January 2025 the matter described in the First Schedule to this certificate in respect of the land specified in the Second Schedule to this certificate and edged red on the plan attached to this certificate, will be lawful within the meaning of section 192 of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 (as amended) for the following reason:

On the basis of the evidence submitted the proposed mobile home is considered to fall within the definition of a caravan defined by the Caravan Sites and Control of Development Act 1960 and the Caravan Sites Act 1968 (as amended). Taking into consideration the relevant case law the caravan does not constitute a building or building operation as defined under Section 55 of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 (as amended).

It is considered on the balance of probability that the use of the mobile home would be incidental to the enjoyment of the host dwelling 'The Pheasantry' and it would be sited within the residential curtilage of this dwelling. Accordingly, there would be no material change of the use of the land on which it would be sited. Therefore a Certificate of Lawfulness for a proposed caravan is considered to be lawful.

FIRST SCHEDULE

Certificate of lawfulness for a proposed development in respect of a mobile home to provide ancillary annex accommodation.

SECOND SCHEDULE

The Pheasantry, Mill Lane, Newdigate, Dorking, Surrey, RH5 5AL

Signed

Piers Mason
Executive Head of Service (Planning and Environment)

Dated: 20 March 2025

NOTES

- 1 This certificate is issued solely for the purpose of sections 191 and 192 of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 (as amended).
- 2 It certifies that the matter specified in the First Schedule taking place on the land described in the Second Schedule would be lawful on the specified date and, thus, would not be liable to enforcement action under section 172 of the 1990 Act on that date.
- 3 This certificate applies only to the extent of the matter described in the First Schedule and to the land specified in the Second Schedule and identified on the attached plan. Any matter which is materially different from those described or which relate(s) to other land may render the owner or occupier liable to enforcement action.
- 4 The effect of the certificate is also qualified by the proviso in section 192(4) of the 1990 Act, as amended, which states that the lawfulness of a described use or operation is only conclusively presumed where there has been no material change, before the use is instituted or the operations begun, in any of the matters relevant to determining such lawfulness.

If you are unable to access the online appeal form, please contact the Planning Inspectorate to obtain a paper copy of the appeal form on tel: 0303 444 5000.

The Secretary of State can allow a longer period for giving notice of an appeal but will not normally be prepared to use this power unless there are special circumstances which excuse the delay in giving notice of appeal.

The Secretary of State need not consider an appeal if it seems to the Secretary of State that the local planning authority could not have granted planning permission for the proposed development or could not have granted it without the conditions they imposed, having regard to the statutory requirements, to the provisions of any development order and to any directions given under a development order.

If you intend to submit an appeal that you would like examined by inquiry then you must notify the Local Planning Authority (planningappeals@rother.gov.uk) and Planning Inspectorate (inquiryappeals@planninginspectorate.gov.uk) at least 10 days before submitting the appeal. We enclose our decision notice in respect of the application you recently submitted to us.

You should read the notice carefully. It is your responsibility to ensure that you comply with the terms of any conditions which are attached to it. Where conditions require you to submit further information to us you will need to pay a fee and submit a separate application. The notice doesn't convey or grant consent for anything other than the application you made under the terms of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990.

If you are aggrieved by our decision to refuse planning permission for the proposed development or to grant it subject to conditions, then you can appeal to the Secretary of State. For planning and related applications this is covered under section 78 of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 (as amended). For listed building consent applications, this is covered under Section 20 of Planning (Listed Buildings and Conservation Areas) Act 1990 (as amended). For advertisement consent applications, this is covered under The Town and Country Planning (Control of Advertisements) (England) Regulations 2007 (as amended). You must submit your appeal within:

- 12 weeks of the date of this notice in the case of householder applications
- 8 weeks of the date of this notice for advertisement applications or
- 6 months of the date of this notice in all other cases

If you intend to submit an appeal that you would like examined by inquiry then you must notify the Local Planning Authority and Planning Inspectorate (inquiryappeals@planninginspectorate.gov.uk) at least 10 days before submitting the appeal. Further details are on GOV.UK.

Appeals can be made online at <https://www.gov.uk/planning-inspectorate>. If you are unable to access the online appeal form, please contact the Planning Inspectorate to obtain a paper copy of the appeal form on 03034445000. The Secretary of State can allow a longer period for giving notice of an appeal but will not normally be prepared to use this power unless there are special circumstances which excuse the delay in giving notice of appeal.

The Secretary of State need not consider an appeal if it seems to the Secretary of State that the local planning authority could not have granted planning permission for the proposed development or could not have granted it without the conditions they imposed, having regard to the statutory requirements, to the provisions of any development order and to any directions given under a development order.

Purchase Notices

If either the local planning authority or the Secretary of State refuses permission to develop land or grants it subject to conditions, the owner may claim that they can neither put the land to a reasonably beneficial use in its existing state nor render the land capable of a reasonably beneficial use by the carrying out of any development which has been or would be permitted.

In these circumstances, the owner may serve a purchase notice on the Council in whose area the land is situated. This notice will require the Council to purchase his interest in the land in accordance with the provisions of Part VI of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990.
