The units will have solar, but the battery storage systems are small per lodge systems that will be located inside the units within the unit plant rooms – this is why they don't show up on plans/elevations. The caravans that are part of this S73 layout are now all located outside of the flood zone and are elevated in any case, so there will be no risk for pollution.

We trust that this is an acceptable solution for the EA to help the client make sure these units meet the highest level of sustainability standards.

Many thanks,

Jack
