You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

Hi Andrew

You very kindly sent an email to my wife [REDACTED] earlier this afternoon regarding the planning application we submitted.

Unfortunately, [REDACTED] is experiencing technical issues with her laptop, and you may not have received her earlier email, so hence this email from myself.

Attached to the email you sent, was the original drawings from our architect showing the house with cladding to the front and East aspect.

Thank you for sending the amended version of the original plan, which has the cladding removed from the building.

Can you please use those attached plans which show the intended built form of the development, alongside the hand drawn plans we handed in at County Hall, for your attention.

The hand drawn plans indicate the intended materials and finish that we propose to use, in place of the cladding, once our plans are approved.

We hope this clarifies the situation and removes any confusion you kindly outlined in your email.

[REDACTED] will telephone you tomorrow to ensure that we have everything in place that is required.

Regards

[REDACTED]
